

LCA and Sustainability Modeling Expert, senior (full time, permanent position)

GreenDelta is an independent sustainability consulting and software company in Berlin, Germany. We provide internationally-leading services that cover all aspects of software and consulting in sustainability.

Our claim is "the art of sustainability consulting". We combine highly professional, skilled, agile software development, preferably but not only in the open source domain, with profound expertise in Life Cycle Assessment (LCA), Social Life Cycle Assessment, Life Cycle Costing, data management, and data quality assurance.

To expand our team, we are now looking for senior Life Cycle Assessment and Sustainability Modeling expert.

Your tasks:

- Planning and conducting LCA case studies and related Assessments of Environmental and Sustainability Performance of products and organisations
- Contribution to research in LCA and Sustainability Assessment, e.g. related to method development, modelling, quality assurance
- Communication of study and project results, interaction with an international network of partners (optional)
- Organisation of trainings and workshops

What we expect from you:

- A good understanding of LCA and related approaches
- Ability to develop own ideas and to implement own approaches, alone and in a team
- Ability to learn, and to put two and two together
- Good communication skills
- Knowledge of at least one of the major LCA software tools, knowledge of openLCA is an advantage
- Fluency in English and in German (written and oral)
- Broader modelling knowledge is an asset, knowledge of databases and scripting languages is an advantage as well

We offer:

- You will be able to contribute to solutions which have a high visibility and impact worldwide, which help to improve and advance sustainability, in European, international and national projects
- An inspiring, creative work environment with some of the internationally leading experts in the field, within a good, positive team which is used to achieve something
- Flat hierarchies,
- Fair payment, flexible working hours with the possibility to work from home
- A nice office located quite centrally in Berlin

Contact: Please send your applications to: jobs@greendelta.com; for questions over the phone, please contact Andreas Ciroth, Tel. +49 30 4849 6031.